

welcome

this is a space to browse objects.
not for purchase, but appreciation.
it is not quite a museum,
but not quite a storage space either.

it is simply a safe space to store an object, and its memory on the internet.
an online altar to something special.

to cultivate a space of quiet reflection, we ask that you close any open tabs or simply open a new browser window before entering.

enter

something special

what makes this object special to you?
not to anyone else, but to you.

lemon candle

My great grandfather grew up on the Italian coast. The few times we visited him in the summer, the lemon trees were overflowing. The air was fresh and bright with the smell of ripe amalfi lemons, this candle always reminds me of those perfect

photo of a frog

My friend sent me a photo of this frog the other day. It made me laugh and cheered me up. I am happy they thought of me and I just wanted to share it here with you.